„SZSI primary mission is to promote the continual development of the building, raise the social status of civil engineers, as well as organize their professional - social contact with each other and with the world.“

SZSI is a professional organization made up of professionals in all fields of construction and investment process, following the principle of direct democracy.

Statutes of SZSI, 12-04-1996

The seriousness of the work of construction engineers and technicians only reflects the overall development of society and has significant impact on progress. The building is significant for all technical and technological innovations of world science and technology, therefore it is possible to say quite openly that the builders are the engine of economic development.

For construction, as well as other sectors of the economy weigh on global crisis, but just as we see in this sector, the crisis breaks and crushed under the pressure of industrious hands still on new projects.

Engineers and technicians working in construction are the source of knowledge and inspiration to be reflected in any new construction work.

Each building is unique, there are two identical buildings, and building character that is the beauty of handicrafts. Without creativity, ingenuity and courage to go into something new would occur beautiful building works, whether residential or technical nature.
